

A photograph of a man with glasses and a white beanie, wearing a blue and white plaid shirt, standing on a paved walkway next to a large tree. He is holding a camera and taking a picture of a tall, rectangular brick pillar. In the background, there are more trees, a parking lot with cars, and some outdoor furniture.

The final design is then produced with changes being made according to the clients desires.

Website design three

After designing the website, it is then converted into code. This now makes it ready for deployment.

Social media design

For my social media design, I started a proof project under the name of Chimi Coffee, where I developed a comprehensive brand strategy, crafting a cohesive visual identity, tone of voice, and engaging content to bring the cafe's warm and inviting atmosphere to life across various social media platforms.
